

#YNAIJA2017REVIEW: STAY WITH ME, LOVE DOES NOT WIN ELECTIONS... SEE THE 10 MOST NOTABLE BOOKS OF THE YEAR

December 17, 2017

From award-winning sprawling depictions of infertility and feminism, to non-fiction accounts of winning elections in Africa, these are the YNaija2017Review's definitive list of the most notable books of the year. Arranged in ascending order.

4. Blind Spot – Teju Cole

Award-winning author, essayist, thinker, photographer and critic, Teju Cole transfers all of these gifts to Blind Spot, an impressive, often confounding journey through about 150 of Cole's full-colour original photos," each accompanied by his lyrical and evocative prose, forming an immersive multimedia diary" of his years of near-constant travel. The experience of Blind Spot runs the gamut from a park in Berlin to a mountain range in Switzerland, a church exterior in Lagos to a parking lot in Brooklyn.
