39 MUST-SEE GALLERY SHOWS IN NEW YORK THIS MARCH

By Sarah Cascone & Caroline Goldstein, March 1, 2018

The editors at artnet News searched New York City high and low for the most exciting, bizarre, and thought-provoking gallery exhibitions this March.

9. “Anja Niemi: She Could Have Been a Cowboy” at Steven Kasher Gallery

Norwegian photographer Anja Niemi gets her first US solo show, featuring photographs shot in the American West. “The story is not really about being a cowboy. It’s about wanting to be another,” she said in her artist statement.

March 1–April 14, 2018; 515 West 26th Street, opening reception 6 p.m.–8 p.m.
